Saginaw School Board Members issue exclusive statements regarding Superintendent

Mike Thompson

As a service to readers, The Michigan Banner has invited the seven trustees of the Saginaw Board of Education to participate in a survey. The main topic is their 4-3 vote on March 21 to not renew the employment contract of Superintendent Nathaniel McClain, terminating his employment at the end of June.

This is an emotional issue. With this survey, The Banner has offered each individual board member an open window to respond in their own words, unedited, so that no reasonable reader can say this report is "slanted" in one way or another.

McClain is a 1988 Saginaw High School graduate who was hired as school chief in July 2015. A prior local superintendent was Foster Gibbs, who had a 23-year tenure from 1978 to 2001. After that, three successors came from out of town. They were Gerald Dawkins, Carlton Jenkins and Kelley Peatross. The hiring of McClain was intended as a move back to local roots.

Board members who voted against keeping McClain are President Rudy Patterson, Mattie Thompson, Kim Hamilton and Jason Thompson.

McClain's board supporters are Ruth Ann Knapp, Tamara McRae and Joyce Seals.

The school board's next meeting is at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 18.

Following are the school trustee statements:

RUDY PATTERSON

(NOTE: Patterson declined to respond to The Banner's specific survey. Following is a press release he provided to general news media early in April.)

"Mr. McClain has been most respectful during this negotiated process and I thank him for such. Mr. McClain has two sides to his employment.

The evaluation on performance and the written contract on stipulations. Mr. McClain has not been terminated or fired from this district as reported. His contract has not been renewed under the provisions of the last signed contract and the revised school code MCL 380.1229.

The law and our policy concur that Mr. McClain has the right to direct the Board on his evaluation process. Mr. McClain chose to have his evaluation in closed session. Therefore Saginaw public schools must retain that level of respect throughout this process.

Mr. McClain does not have the right to discuss his contract in closed session. The terms of his contract has always been public knowledge.

The media reported only one of our school's index rating, SHS at 28% success, below the 31% red flag threshold, while reporting Midland, Bay City and Grand Blanc in the mid to high 80's. The community deserves the best possible solution to a successful school District.

There are officers of the Saginaw NAACP Chapter which are also elected trustees on the Saginaw Public School Board, who may be in a questionable range of conflict of interest. (NOTE: Ruth Ann Knapp, chapter vice-president, has denied any involvement in local NAACP protests.) Expending efforts to win over public opinion at a Non Official venue to offset their elected minority opinion. All without delivering public facts which they were privy to.

Again Saginaw Public Schools will not breach the personnel file or discredit Mr. McClain and his family simply to ward off those seeking publicity and political gains.

SPSB will address the Superintendent replacement when there is a vacancy to be filled. Mr. McClain remains the superintendent until June 30, 2018."

RUTH ANN KNAPP

"Rationale: First, the Board has spoken. Their decision is made. I did not support that decision and brought up in 'discussion' that Superintendent McClain previously had two 'effective' evaluations. Test scores and graduation rates have been going up, dropout rate is going down and we're no longer in deficit. Cuts and concessions have been reinstated. I was totally blind-sided with the lack of transparency and did not know this was 'in the works' in light of the progress being made on the goals set by the school board.

Divided Board? Yes! It is my belief that the decision by the divided board has brought to light a division in the community. The children are the ones who will suffer because of the decision made.

Steps to take? The community needs to get more involved with the decisions made on their behalf. Hold the board members responsible for their positions and votes. The next opportunity is Nov. 6, 2018 at the polls."

THE QUEEN OF HEARTS

By Joann L. Washington

INDIGO SOUL STORY COLLECTION

Anna Belle Johnson grew younger and younger so it seemed with every dawning. Her cheeks vibrant with hue. In time, she lost the thin silver crown of hair, to thick dark tresses that cascaded down her back.

Anna Belle Johnson went to the market place for fresh vegetables and cutlets, as she did every Saturday morning.

"May I help you young lady?" Tom Williams said with a flirty smile. "Why Tom Williams!" blushed Anna Belle, "I'll have my usual order." The man's glasses sled off his nose and hit the floor. His mouth fell open, as he leaned forward to long into Anna Belle Johnson's young face.

"Anna, Anna, Anna Belle Johnson? Is that you? What have you done to yourself!? You look so young! You are young again!"

"Tom, would you care for tea and cakes at my place on Sunday afternoon?" Tom closed his mouth and gave Anna Belle Johnson her order. In all the excitement he crushed his gold-rimmed eyeglasses under his feet.

"I'll be there... YES! I will be there Sunday afternoon...for tea and cakes...Anna Belle Johnson."

"Good! We will have a grand time Tom Williams, have a lovely day! Good bye."

On Sunday morning, a throng of people anxiously waited for the young and beautiful, Anna Belle Johnson to appear. Mrs. Rose Smith peered through her curtains at the mob before she made her grand debut. She ran outside flapping her arms, like a chicken.

"Hey, everyone! Look! Here! I know what my dear best friend's Anna Belle Johnson secret is!! Why I've known sweet Anna Belle for thirty years! We share everything...even those delicious tea and cakes! Everyone! Please...come over here I can tell you what her secret is!"

She was completely ignored. Suddenly Rose Smith became faint. She sat down on the squeaky swing, that's when she notices her hands and arms. She gasped, and jumped straight up.

"MY AGE SPOTS!! There gone??" She looked over at Anna Belle's massive picture window. There she was, the queen of hearts, smiling at her. Rose caught a suspicious wink from Anna's green eyes, just before the curtain fall back.

"Oh! Oh! Dear me? I feel so good? I feel so very good! And look how pretty the day is. The air it smells so sweet, and listen to the sweet summer song of the Robin...and the children, the children, by God their laughter is like an old friend...what I would give to be young and carefree again...just for a little while. I feel like going for a walk, and enjoy the beauty of the day! Oh! Listen to me! I sound just like my dear friend Anna Belle Johnson." Rose giggled, and hurried away.

Suddenly a hush fall over the mob of people. There Anna Belle Johnson stood before them. She looked to be in her late twenties.

"Good day to you All!" she shouted. In her hands was a jumbo tray filled with a hodgepodge of dainty sweet ginger and honey spiced finger cakes. There were savory cinnamon and apple teas and swirls of lemons and limes slices. The children cheered Anna Belle as she sat the tray on the table. Then they rushed the heavy gates, and the wave of people flowed in.

"Anna Belle! Anna Belle!" A voice thundered out "have you found the fountain of youth? You are beautiful...and young again! Tell us! Tell us! Tell us your secret!"

The people yelled out not believing in their own eyes. Anna Belle wore a beautiful white dress. It was speckled with a delicate pattern of summer roses. Its border was embossed with a faint texture of handmade lace, in white rose. Her dark skin sat her eyes apart, and they glowed in a perfect black

"Indeed, there is a secret to my renewed youth, and vigor. But, I cannot tell you where to search for yours, nor can I give you a recipe on how you too can become young again. What I can do, is to invite you all to come and enjoy the beauty of life, and oh! Watch...feel the magic, as it unfolds and explodes all around. Don't you see? Your youth never left you...you left it. If each and every one of you reach back into the depts of your inner being to regain your strength, faith, and yourselves, what peace! What total and utter tranquilly you would find. Look all around you! There is LIFE everyone. Reach for it...take it! It is yours! All you have to do is what it! Now everyone...please enjoy the beauty of the day...and of course, do help yourselves to the tea and cakes!"

They stood vexed; some yelled..."Is that it? Is that the secret?" whimpered the throng. In a frenzy some of them began to run behind the children, hoping their plight might lead them to the elusive secret. They searched behind the trees, in the fountain, bushes, even in the swings.

Young Anna Belle Johnson smiled and bit gingerly into a sweet honey-spiced cake. She swung free as a bird through the air, with her dark hair floating after her. The melodious laughter of the children mimicked between the trees.

"Mr. Williams," Anna Belle Johnson's sweet girlish voice rang out, "Come and swing with me...and please...Tom...enjoy the tea and cakes...enjoy the tea and cakes!"

LET US KNOW WHAT YOU THINK ABOUT "THE QUEEN OF HEARTS" AT THEMICHIGANBANNER.COM

MATTIE THOMPSON

"There are concerns that I have expressed that have not been addressed, among them long-term substitute teachers, large class sizes, unsupervised students and substandard test scores. Mr. McClain has had three years, and before he got that position he was assistant superintendent. Changes need to be made.

We have 16 teacher vacancies being filled by long-term subs, including four at Arthur Hill and three at Saginaw High. I've never seen Saginaw High in such bad shape.

At Jessie Rouse, there are 36 kids in one classroom with no teacher aide. How can we expect our children to be proficient in their educations by third grade, as the state is requiring?

The State of Michigan ranks No. 50 in the education of African American students. Overall, Michigan is No. 49. Only West Virginia is worse. Thanks, West Virginia.

Parents are calling me about things that are happening in the schools with unsupervised students, and I do my homework. In one case, a student was hanging out of a window.

My vote is simply one vote. People can say what they want, but there is not a 'Gang of Four' (teaming up against McClain)."

TAMARA McRAE

"I support the renewal of Mr. McClain's contract. He is very civic-minded individual and he has been, and is, very instrumental and critical to the success of our district. As we all know, Mr. Mcclain grew up in Saginaw, attended Saginaw schools and returned to Saginaw with his family. His children also attend SPSD.

He has demonstrated professional behavior as portrayed by his quiet demeanor, positive attitude, non-judgmental outlook and objectivity. He has met the requirements, directives and guidelines established by the board which is evidenced by receiving two favorable evaluations. Mr. McClain understands the values of our diverse district and is very visible in the community and in our schools. He was able to assist our district out of the budget deficit as well as with progress towards district goals, by which he has articulated a clear plan to prepare our students for success. He has a deep concern for our children, and is their greatest advocate. We have made considerable progress towards the achievement gap affecting our district.

As a school board, it is important that we have a unified view and mission as we work together as a team with the superintendent to advocate together on behalf of the educational needs of our students.

- (1) We should be united and committed about the goals for our school district with the understanding that there will be difference in thinking, values, beliefs and experiences.
- (2) Communication should be open, honest and respectful. We should take time to listen to each board member, so that each member will feel that he/she is heard. Disagreement is expected and appreciated. Different viewpoints are expected and encouraged. We must not classify any thought and or idea as dumb, or bully other board members to change their viewpoints.
- (3) As a team we must constantly examine what may be hindering our ability to move forward. We must be willing to improve our practices, processes and interaction with one another. We will not provide support for an ongoing negative board member."

Continues on pg 6, Saginaw School Board

KIM HAMILTON

"As I have previously stated, this is a process, and I will not be making any comments until the process is completed."

JOYCE SEALS

"Our school district has been going in the right direction. Some of the test scores still are too low, but we have been steadily improving. Even the state officials, the same ones who have been so harsh, agree that we are making progress. And then, suddenly, we have four board members who have colluded to dismiss our superintendent after only two and a half years. It took us 15 to 20 years to get into this big mess, and these four members didn't even give Mr. McClain a fair chance.

When we explore the challenges we face, people need to realize that these are national and statewide challenges. Saginaw is not alone. But here in Saginaw, at least we had been making progress. We reached a point where this year we purchased new textbooks to support a new curriculum. We also are addressing students who fall through the cracks -- attendance problems, social problems, behavior problems -- and all of our new approaches have been converging into a combined system for sustained improvement.

The climate in the school district had become positive. The staff and administration have been encouraged by our progress. Hopefully, the actions of these four board members will not undermine all of this movement.

In closing, all I can say is that I have served on numerous boards and commissions through the years, including more than 10 years on the City Council with two years as mayor. Of all of those boards, this school board has proven to be the worst one. It is beyond belief. People in the community ask me about the decisions they see being made, including the dismissal of the superintendent, and I am unable to provide them with any rational or logical explanation.

For sure, changes need to be made."

JASON THOMPSON

(NOTE: Last week, Jason Thompson did not respond to repeated telephone calls and email messages.)

For his part, McClain told the school board at an April 11 meeting that he aims to continue without a "superintendent soap opera" until his dismissal takes effect on June 30. In that spirit, he declined The Michigan Banner's offer to submit a response to any criticism from certain school board trustees.

We also contacted Foster Gibbs, who at age 80 now lives in Bay City. Gibbs said he is not familiar with specific details of Saginaw's superintendent controversy, but he is aware of the general events and is "disappointed" that the turmoil is taking place. During his time in office, he noted, the board acted in a "professional" manner.

School board members are elected every two years, for six-year terms of office unless they are filling a board vacancy. This year, on Nov. 6, members up for re-election on the 2018 ballot -- if they choose to run again -- are Patterson, Knapp and Jason Thompson. In 2020, McRae and Mattie Thompson will be up for re-election. In 2022, Hamilton and Seals will be up for re-election.

Finally, The Michigan Banner always welcomes letters to the editor. Simply send them to publisher022@gmail.com. The deadline for the May 1 edition is April 24.

HEALTH

Partnering for Health Equity | April 2018

The old saying goes, "two heads are better than one." The idea behind this proverb is that it's helpful to work with others when tackling a problem or working to reach a goal. In public health, individuals and organizations have long used this approach when it comes to addressing health equity. During National Minority Health Month 2018 in April, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) at the Office of Minority Health (OMH) is drawing attention to impactful public and private sector collaborations that advance health equity and help improve the health of the nation.

One of the reasons why teamwork can be more effective in addressing health disparities is because our health is influenced by many factors. The places where people are born, grow, live, work, play, learn, and age all impact health. By collaborating across and within sectors such as health, education, justice, housing, transportation, nutrition, environmental health and employment, we can improve living conditions in communities and help individuals live longer and healthier lives.

This April, please join

Michiganders warned not to consume products containing kratom due to Salmonella outbreak linked to substance

courtesy photo

LANSING, Mich. – The Michigan Department of Health and Human Services (MDHHS) is collaborating with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), the Michigan Department of Agriculture and Rural Development and local health departments to investigate a multistate outbreak of Salmonella linked to the consumption of products containing the plant substance kratom.

More than 130 people from 38 states, including three individuals in Michigan in Kent, Livingston and Monroe counties, have been infected with Salmonella linked to kratom. No deaths have been reported; however, 38 individuals have been hospitalized.

Kratom is a plant consumed for its stimulant effects and is also used as an opioid substitute. Kratom is known as Thang, Kakuam, Thom, Ketom and Biak. Ill individuals have reported consuming kratom as pills, powder and in tea.

"We are advising Michigan residents not to consume any products containing kratom," said Dr. Eden Wells, MDHHS chief medical executive. "If you have used kratom and subsequently develop symptoms, please consult your medical provider. In addition, we urge people to consult their health care provider before taking any supplement, especially if they have weakened immune systems, are pregnant, younger than 5 years old or are an older adult."

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has issued a mandatory recall for all food products containing powdered kratom manufactured, processed, packed or held by Triangle Pharmanaturals, LLC. Other kratom products have been recalled voluntarily by suppliers or manufacturers as several other brands and products containing kratom have tested positive for Salmonella. As part of the Michigan investigation, the MDHHS Bureau of Laboratories has detected Salmonella in the following four kratom-containing product samples purchased online from Herbal-Salvation/Viable Solutions, LLC, in Nampa, ID: Red Vein Bali (Indonesia), Green Horn (Indonesia), Red Vein Sumatra (Indonesia) and Thai Maeng Da, (Thailand). For a list of recalled kratom products, visit the FDA website.

Most people infected with Salmonella develop diarrhea, fever, nausea, vomiting and abdominal cramps 12-72 hours after being exposed to the bacteria. The illness usually lasts four to seven days, and most people recover without treatment. In some cases severe diarrhea or infection may occur and require hospitalization.

For more information about the outbreak investigation involving kratom, visit the CDC website.

Covenant HealthCare will Host Medication Take-Back Event

Covenant HealthCare in collaboration with the Michigan Opioid Prescribing Engagement Network (OPEN), Saginaw County Department of Public Health, CMU Health, and Saginaw Police Department will host a Medication Take-Back event on Saturday, April 28 from 10:00 am - 2:00 pm outside 800 Cooper (Physician Office Building). This allows community members to drivethru and drop off unwanted or unused prescription medications, including pills and capsules (no liquid filled), patches, pet medications, and expired or unwanted prescriptions (including controlled substances). No needles, syringes, inhalers, lancets or liquids will be accepted. The event will be coordinated with City of Saginaw Police Department, with officers and Covenant employee volunteers on-site.

Community members are encouraged to bring unused medications, and tell friends and family to do the same.

According to Michigan OPEN, 91 people die each day in the US from opioidrelated overdoses – that is more than the number of people killed in car accidents or by guns. Opioids are often involved in accidental poisonings and intentional misuse.

- Every 10 minutes a child visits the emergency room for medication poisoning
- 12.5 million people age 12 and older misused opioids in the last year
- Three in five teens say prescription pain medication is easy to get from their parents' medicine cabinet

Given these statistics, it is recommend to dispose of unused opioids and medications as soon as possible.

Prepare for Flint & Genesee's 2018 Meet the Buyer

The Flint & Genesee Chamber of Commerce, in partnership with Region 6 PTAC, is hosting the Flint & Genesee Meet the Buyer event on Friday, May 11, 2018 from 8:00 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.. This event provides a fast-paced, innovative way to connect buyers with vendors from across the region. In past years, more than 30 buyers were able to meet with 125 vendors in a format similar to 'speed dating'. Each buyer has five minutes to share information about their organization and what they buy, followed by 15 minutes for attendees to briefly present their companies and ask questions. The event is hosted at the University of Michigan-Flint's Riverfront Banquet Center in downtown Flint.

"Meet the Buyer 2018" is one month from today. So there is still plenty time to sharpen your sales pitch for the prospective buyers of the goods and services that will be present at the May 11 event.

The Region 6 Procurement Technical Assistance Center (PTAC) is ready to assist. PTAC is hosting Meet the Buyer preparation workshop on April 20 at the Flint & Genesee Chamber of Commerce. The two-hour session, from 9-11 a.m., will focus on helping participants develop their company's capability statement, including what it should highlight and showcase. Participants will also work on developing a winning elevator speech.

"The capability statement should communicate clearly and effectively to potential partners about your capabilities," said PTAC Manager Jasmine McKenney. "It provides specific information that will assist potential clients to make a decision on whether they should do business with you. The idea is to differentiate your business from your competitor."

This workshop is free to the public but advanced registration is required. Space is limited.

REGISTER NOW for the prep workshop.

Meet the Buyer will be held May 11 from 8 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the Riverfront Banquet Center, 1 Riverfront Plaza in downtown Flint. It brings together procurement officials from various local, regional, state and federal agencies and businesses with goods and services for sale.

Attendees will rotate among different agency tables, learning how the organization buys, what they are buying, and other valuable procurement information. Each buyer has five minutes to share information about their organization and what they buy, followed by 15 minutes for attendees to briefly present their companies and ask questions.

Buyers in past years have included Ann Arbor Transportation Authority, Bay Metro Transit, Bishop International Airport, City of Flint, Consumers Energy, Department of Veteran Affairs, Flint/Genesee Job Corps, General Dynamics Land Systems, Genesee County, Genesee County Road Commission, Hurley Medical Center, Mass Transportation Authority, Oakland County, TACOM LCMC, United States Army, and others.

Steven Koprince, Managing Partner of Koprince Law LLC- Legal Solutions for Government Contractors, will be the keynote speaker. Read Koprince's guest commentary (p. 18) in the March/April 2018 issue of AND.

Teachers invited to apply for summer writing workshop

courtesy photo

The Alden and Vada Dow Creativity Foundation is once again providing generous funding to allow Saginaw Valley State University and other partners to support K-12 teachers in their quest to become writing instructors and inspire a love of writing in their students.

The SVSU-based Saginaw Bay Writing Project will run a week-long writing workshop July 23-27, featuring a variety of learning opportunities and resources for up to 30 Michigan teachers.

"By going through the process of drafting, sharing, and revising their own writing, teachers will learn more about the challenges - and the joys - their students experience as writers," said Helen Raica-Klotz, director of SVSU's Writing Center and the Saginaw Bay Writing Project. "We hosted a similar workshop in 2016 that was very well received, and we are grateful to the Alden and Vada Dow Creativity Foundation for again supporting this important community need."

The writing workshops will be led by John Mauk, who will focus on fiction writing, and Ann-Marie Oomen, who will teach on memoir writing. It will also feature guest speaker Colleen Cruz.

Mauk writes both college textbooks and fictional pieces. He graduated with a doctorate in English from Bowling Green State University and currently teaches at Miami University of Ohio.

Oomen writes plays, poetry, and memoirs. She currently teaches at Pine Manor College and the Interlochen College of Creative Arts Writers Retreat.

Cruz is the author of "The Unstoppable Writing Teacher." She previously was a classroom teacher before joining the Teachers College Reading and Writing Project where she currently serves as the director of innovation.

All workshop sessions will be held in Midland. Morning sessions will be held at the Alden B. Dow Home and Studio. Afternoon sessions will be held at Grace A. Dow Memorial Library.

Applications are available online to any teacher in the Great Lakes Bay Region and will be accepted until April 30.

The cost is $150 per person. Participants also can take advantage of an opportunity to obtain 25 free State Continuing Education Clock Hours (SCECH) credits or two SVSU credits, paid for by participants.

For more information and to apply, please visit svsu.edu/sbwp/vadabdowworkshop.

New Central Michigan University building boosts health education

courtesy photos

There's a key word in the name of Central Michigan University's newest building under construction: integrated.

The $26 million Center for Integrated Health Studies will empower students from multiple high-demand fields of study to learn and practice together, a best practice in health care education.

And the building itself will connect to the existing Health Professions complex along Preston Street — the Health Professions Building, opened in 2004, and College of Medicine Building, opened in 2012.

A formal groundbreaking is scheduled at 11 a.m. Thursday, April 19, on the south side of the building site.

The existing health complex's main corridor — with its natural light, atrium-like spaces, and cozy nooks for student study and collaboration — will extend through the new two-story, 50,000-square-foot structure.

Site excavation began in March, and building move-in is scheduled for fall 2019.

"It's pretty much a seamless continuation of the existing building," said Tom Masterson, dean of The Herbert H. and Grace A. Dow College of Health Professions.

Interprofessional education

Masterson is most excited about the building's Interprofessional Education Center, which will feature a two-room simulation suite equipped for use with a variety of high-tech clinical mannequins, eight standardized patient rooms for role-playing medical scenarios, and all rooms monitored for observation and feedback.

"The IPE Center is something I've been involved with for close to 10 years in concept," Masterson said. "I think IPE is key to a lot of our programs moving into the future."

He said the college's "maxed out" physician assistant program in particular is expected to grow with the new building.

Other College of Health Professions programs include athletic training, communication sciences and disorders, environmental health and safety, health sciences, physical therapy, and physical education and sport.

The need for health professionals is on the rise nationwide. The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics predicts a 23 percent increase in demand for athletic trainers through 2026 — much faster than average job growth. The anticipated increases are even higher for physical therapists (28 percent) and physician assistants (37 percent).

Masterson said all health professions require interdisciplinary learning. In the clinical world, that approach enables a care team to "share responsibility for the health of the individual," improving the health outcomes of patients and reducing the stress on care providers at risk for burnout.

"Really, the whole building is focused around student collaboration," he said.

The building includes two physical therapy labs, meaning two classes can meet at the same time and interact.

There also will be four flexible classrooms on the second floor, with furnishings that can be arranged for teamwork, and an auditorium with a similarly flexible setup. Faculty and graduate student offices also are included.

Beautiful and basic Credit goes to Masterson and the college for "really having done their homework on defining their needs," said Jonathan Webb, CMU associate vice president for facilities management.

The result will be a quality facility that gets maximum use out of limited square footage — and fits in with its surroundings.

"The building needs to look like it belongs," Webb said of exterior finishes and architectural features. "This is really a very beautiful but basic and simple design."

It also conserves energy.

"Every time we put up a new building, we make sure it meets sustainability standards," Webb said, citing features such as large windows that let in natural light. "We're always looking to reduce the use of energy and save costs."

Construction will move quickly, Webb said, with steel erected and the building enclosed by the end of 2018.

Meanwhile, the Health Professions Building has new south and north entrances during construction.

"We appreciate all the cooperation from the campus community," Webb said. "There's always a small disruption as we try to make improvements."

The CIHS will be the first new structure on campus since completion of the Biosciences Building in 2016 and an extensive renovation and addition to Grawn Hall in 2017.

The largest payment toward the building, $19.5 million, came from the Michigan Legislature in 2016. The rest of the money came from university reserves.

Mott Community College to move forward in creating Family Life Center

Plans by Mott Community College to help increase access in Flint to high-quality early learning opportunities and supportive services received an important boost today, thanks to a $3 million grant from the Charles Stewart Mott Foundation.

The grant will support the renovation of the former Woodside Church, located at 1509 East Court Street. The College purchased the property in 2017

When it opens in 2019, the Family Life Center will be home to MCC's nationally accredited Early Childhood Learning Center (ECLC). The newly renovated space will allow the program to increase enrollment from a maximum of 75 children to a maximum 125, and to serve children from birth to five years of age. It currently is available to children two-and-a-half to five years old.

The Family Life Center also will serve as a resource hub, helping MCC students and their families to address such basic needs as food, housing and transportation. Non-student parents of children in the ECLC program will also have the ability to access family support services on site.

And MCC plans to eventually relocate its degree and certification programs in early childhood education to the renovated facility. With increased opportunities to engage with and learn from the children enrolled in ECLC, program graduates will strengthen the pipeline of skilled early education teachers and providers serving the Flint community and beyond.

"With its service to children, their families and the early learning community, the Family Life Center will take a 'full circle' approach to improving early childhood education," said Neal Hegarty, vice president of programs at the Mott Foundation. "It illustrates the dynamic and innovative efforts underway in Flint to create quality educational opportunities that span from cradle to college and career."

In addition to the Mott Foundation grant, support for the more than $8 million renovation, which will include building and site upgrades of the roof, HVAC systems, plumbing, computer networking, parking lots, driveways, sidewalks, and landscaping, comes from MCC's sale of $3 million in voter-approved bonds. The remaining project balance of just over $2 million will be raised through the securing of additional grants and traditional fundraising by the College and the Foundation for Mott Community College.

"We appreciate the support of the Mott Foundation for our efforts to eliminate the challenges facing many in our community, including our student parents, in accessing high-quality, early education for their children," said MCC President, Dr. Beverly Walker-Griffea. "By developing a Family Life Center, Mott Community College reduces barriers that prevent our students from completing their education and strengthens our role as a safe haven in the community."

The Family Life Center is the latest example of efforts by area partners to increase access in Flint to high-quality early childhood education. Cummings Great Expectations: An Early Childhood Center opened on the city's west side in November 2017, and Educare Flint opened in December 2018 on the campus of Flint's Durant-Turri-Mott Elementary School.

Mott Community College is committed to excellence in education and offering services that cultivate student success and improve the overall quality of life in a multicultural community. With more than 100 academic and occupational degree programs, we help students prepare to achieve more in an ever-changing economy. Through university transfer agreements, high-demand associate's degree programs and one-year certification programs, we help ensure that all Mott students are ready to get more out of life.

Kettering alumni raise money jamaican high school students attend camp

Students from Jamaica are getting the opportunity to come to Kettering University's Academically Interested Minds (AIM) camp thanks to the efforts of alumni.

A group of alumni established the Jamaica AIM Alumni Scholarship (JAAS) in 2013 to provide funds for Jamaican students from low-income families to attend the five-week, residential, pre-college summer program at the University. The camp provides students with college-level courses in business management, calculus, chemistry, computer programming, economics and physics, with labs included in multiple courses. Students have the opportunity to earn Kettering scholarships through AIM.

The JAAS fund started when Kettering alumni who had benefited from corporate sponsorships to attend the AIM camp wanted to give current high school students the same opportunity. The scholarships were no longer available, and the alumni donated money to pay the $500 fee for students who wanted to attend, said Jheanell Johnson '11, who does public relations for JAAS.

The group has sent six students to the camp since 2013. All students were offered scholarships to attend Kettering, and some are studying at University.

In March 2017, JAAS hosted its first banquet and raised $12,000 to sponsor three students. Faurecia, Cooper Standard and Chrysler Automotive were among the donors at the event. One of the students who attended AIM in 2017 earned a full-ride scholarship to Kettering.

Moving forward, JAAS hopes to sponsor two students per year to maximize their potential to get scholarships to Kettering. They also are expending mentorship and support for younger students, from meals for students who need them to exposing students to STEM.

FUNDRAISING GOOD TIMES

Hiring your new leader

Where does fundraising rank as a priority when searching for new leadership?

It happens all the time. "I quit!" or "You're fired!" are the extremes that can mark the beginning of a crucial organizational change process.

When you find yourself in the midst of a leadership search it will be critical that your search team pays close attention to each candidate's experience with and knowledge of fundraising. Yes, we know there is a long list of qualities and experiences that will be valuable, even critical. But you have to ask about fundraising, and you have to ask the right questions. Unless you have consistent access to funds whenever you need them, the financial health of your organization will rest on your new leader's ability to attract and sustain funding.

Here are a few questions to consider asking your candidates.

- 1. Where does fundraising rank amongst your priorities?
- 2. Do you have a history of fundraising as a volunteer?
- 3. Have you received formal fundraising training or coaching?
- 4. Have you served on a nonprofit board where you were involved with fundraising in a meaningful way?
- 5. Please share with us a project where you had a major role in fundraising. What were the results?
- 6. How do you feel about personally asking people for a gift?
- 7. Have you ever been involved in Copyright 2018 – Mel and Pearl Shaw Mel and Pearl Shaw are authors of four books on fundraising available on Amazon.com. For help growing your fundraising visit www.saadandshaw.com or call (901) 522-8727.

- cultivating and soliciting a major gift?
- 8. Do you have references that can verify your fund development and fundraising experience?
- 9. How do you feel about being solicited for a gift?
- 10. How do you measure fundraising success?
- 11. How would you establish fundraising goals for the organization?
- 12. How do you distinguish fund development from fundraising?
- 13. How much time do you believe you should devote to fundraising?
- 14. How will you evaluate the progress of the organization's fundraising staff?

- 15. What role do you believe a board should play in fundraising?
- 16. What is your experience motivating and energizing people to fundraise?

At the end of the day, when a nonprofit leader is fired it often boils down to the fact that the person did not meet expectations in regards to fundraising. When hiring a new leader you have to be clear about fundraising responsibilities. Do it now so your organization won't find itself in the situation of "I quit!" or "You're fired!"

COMMUNITY

New Program Available to Support Local Victims of Sexual Assault Thanks to Grant

courtesy photo

Imagine the heartbreaking scenario of a young child or a college student sexually assaulted in Gratiot County and then having to travel up to 90 miles one way to receive the necessary care and forensic evidence collection needed for prosecution.

Thanks to a local grant, victims of sexual assault, of any age or gender, will benefit from a new program that will be implemented at MidMichigan Medical Center – Gratiot due to support received from the Gratiot County Community Foundation from the Clyde and Maude Mizer Memorial Fund.

A $4,900 donation was granted to the MidMichigan Health Foundation to help implement a Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner (SANE) program in Gratiot County. This effort is in collaboration with the Children's Advocacy Center of Gratiot (CAC) County. CAC is a program operated under the umbrella of Child Advocacy, a non-profit organization in Alma, whose mission is to improve the welfare of children and their families. The SANE program will be housed at and supervised by the Medical Center in Gratiot and utilized by CAC and any resident of Gratiot County who may fall victim to sexual assault.

According to Tina M. Travis, executive director, Gratiot County Community Foundation, the Foundation's board wholeheartedly endorsed the support of this project.

"When MidMichigan Medical Center – Gratiot stepped up offering the staff and ongoing funding for the SANE program, it made perfect sense for the Foundation to fund the training to set the program in motion sooner rather than later," said Travis. "Thanks to continued collaboration in our community, victims of abuse will no longer have to travel outside of Gratiot County for the critical services they need."

Shanna Hensler, community health specialist, MidMichigan Medical Centers in Alma and Mt. Pleasant, explained that four registered nurses will be identified to receive specialized training and credentialing for the purpose of providing a sexual assault exam and collecting critical evidence needed for prosecution. The training will consist of both adult and pediatric certifications.

"Currently, in Gratiot County, without a SANE program in place, children have to visit a hospital out of county to receive these exams and/or treatment," added Audra Stahl, president/CEO, Child Advocacy. "We understand that we may still have some children who need to visit Devos Children's Hospital in Grand Rapids for services, but having this service in our community will be tremendously helpful and timelier.

We are excited to partner with the hospital on such a meaningful project and we are extremely grateful to the Gratiot County Community Foundation for the funding."

Stahl stated that the Children's Advocacy Center of Gratiot County provides an average of 125 forensic interviews a year and about 90 percent of these interviews are for victims of child sexual abuse; of those approximately 40 require an exam.

The Medical Center has already redecorated some of the Emergency Department exam rooms for the purpose of serving children. The rooms are now colorful, with warm lighting and have décor appropriate for children in the hallways leading up to the exam rooms. In addition, other areas in the Emergency Department have been changed to make it more appropriate to meet the special needs of adult male and female victims of sexual assault.

"As an undergraduate student at Central Michigan University many years ago, I became involved in sexual assault education and prevention," said Marita Hattem-Schiffman, president, MidMichigan Medical Centers in Alma and Mt. Pleasant. "Sexual assault is shockingly prevalent today and it is critical that we understand and respond to the needs of our community. We are so proud to be part of this community partnership that will help ensure Gratiot County sexual assault victims receive the care, comfort and compassion they need and deserve."

Gov. Rick Snyder: Stronger communities mean a stronger Michigan

HAMTRAMCK, Mich. – When Michigan's small communities are provided the tools and resources needed to thrive, the entire state thrives, Gov. Rick Snyder said as he joined state and local leaders for a roundtable discussion today about the city of Hamtramck's challenges and opportunities as it begins its partnership with Project Rising Tide.

"Project Rising Tide is about providing communities like Hamtramck with the tools, resources, and guidance needed to strengthen their economic development, community development and talent development efforts," Gov. Rick Snyder said. "It's also about making sure our state's smaller communities have an opportunity to grow and thrive, to play a key part in Michigan's comeback story"

Hamtramck is the fourth community to join the second round of the state's program designed to help communities help themselves. It joins Albion, Eaton Rapids and West Branch, and will soon be tapping expertise from the state and guidance from its neighboring community and Rising Tide mentor, River Rouge.

"Hamtramck is already on the right path,"
Talent and Economic Development Director
Roger Curtis said. "With strong community assets, great diversity, and the resources to help guide them, Hamtramck will undoubtedly be very successful in building a bright future for its residents, the region and the state."

Launched in 2015, Project Rising Tide started with one community from each of the state's prosperity regions. Led by the Michigan Department of Talent and Economic Development, the program connects communities with technical assistance from the department's agencies, including the Michigan Economic Development Corporation, the Michigan State Housing Development Authority and the Talent Investment Agency.

"Project Rising Tide is designed to get everyone together at the table to address the challenges that stand between where the community has been and where it wants to go," Curtis added. "And once we have identified those barriers and get local leaders rowing in the same direction, the community will move further, faster – eliminating the barriers and growing their economy and region in the process."

Second-round communities were selected based on four criteria, including unemployment rate, labor participation rate, vacancy rate and percent of population with a high school degree or less.

Though struggling with a high poverty rate, the city continues to make great progress after improving its financial stability and regaining full local control of operations and finances last month. Leaders of Hamtramck look forward to continued growth through the help of Project Rising Tide.

"We've seen this program in action and know the challenge that lies ahead of us – and we're ready," Mayor Karen Majewski said. "We have a diverse group of strong community leaders and advocates that are ready to roll up our sleeves. It's time to get to work. We're all in."

Congressman Dan Kildee issues statements on recent issues

Congressman Dan Kildee (MI-05) issued the following statement today after U.S. and allied forces conducted military strikes in Syria:

"I strongly condemn Bashar al-Assad's use of chemical weapons on his own people. In killing his own people, Assad's regime has violated international law and defied basic human decency. While I believe there must be a response to the Assad regime's brutal war crimes, President Trump must come to Congress and seek an Authorization for the Use of Military Force. The U.S. Constitution grants Congress the sole power to declare war and the President must lay out a clear plan regarding any further military action. The people I represent deserve a debate in Congress over the scope, size and strategy of U.S. involvement in the Middle East. I strongly believe that any further military action must also be accompanied by diplomatic and humanitarian support, including providing refuge for those victims of terror fleeing Assad's brutal regime."

Congressman Dan Kildee (MI-05) issued the following statement today after Michigan Governor Rick Snyder announced that he will end bottled water distributions for the people of Flint:

"The state should provide Flint families with bottled water until all of the lead service lines have been replaced. Flint families rightfully still do not trust state government, who created this crisis and lied to our community about the safety of the water. Continuing to provide bottled water service until all lead service lines are replaced will give peace of mind to residents and help restore Flint's trust in government. Until then, I understand why Flint families still do not trust the water coming out of their taps."

Loons fall against Lansing on Opening Day

MIDLAND, Mich. - On a chilly Opening Day at Dow Diamond, the Great Lakes Loons dropped the first game of the season to the Lansing Lugnuts, 12-1.

The Loons (0-1) were held to two hits against the Lugnuts (1-0) due to superb pitching from right-hander Yennsy Diaz (1-0, 0.00 ERA), who held a perfect game through five innings before allowing a double to Ramon Rodriguez.

"It's always great to have an Opening Day," said Loons manager John Shoemaker. "You don't want to get beat 12-1 too often, but sometimes those are easier to take than a 2-1 loss."

Lansing took no time finding the scoreboard, driving in two runs in the top of the first inning on RBIs from Ryan Noda and Kevin Smith. With Samad Taylor batting in the top of the second, the Lugnuts tacked on another run due to a passed ball by Rodriguez.

Max Gamboa (0-1, 2.25 ERA), the starter for the Loons, went 4.0 innings, allowing three runs on three hits, one walk, and four strikeouts. Of the three runs, just one was earned.

Following his RBI early in the game, Smith smacked a single to left field off right-hander Andre Scrubb, which pushed in two runs for a 5-0 Lansing lead in the top of the fifth.

Diaz was pulled from the game after 5.2 innings pitched. He allowed one run and piled up 10 strikeouts.

"It took us awhile to get something going," Shoemaker said. "Diaz shut us down for about six innings, but we made some miscues on defense that could've kept the game closer."

After the Lugnuts put another run on the board with Reggie Pruitt's single to score Christian Williams, the Loons finally touched home plate. Zach McKinstry opened the bottom of the eighth with a six-pitch walk against right-hander Donnie Sellers and Brayan Morales capitalized, driving him in on a line drive single to right field, cutting Lansing's lead to 6-1.

"It's not easy playing in this type of weather," Morales said. "We went out and battled. It's a long season and we have to believe in ourselves."

Great Lakes left-hander Devin Hemmerich loaded the bases with nobody out in the top of the ninth. Smith picked up his third RBI on a throwing error to give Lansing a 7-1 edge.

Lansing scored five more runs in the final frame of the game for an 12-1 victory on RBIs from Pruitt and Chavez Young and Kevin Vicuna.

Great Lakes and Lansing will dual at Dow Diamond on Friday with right-hander Riley Ottesen starting on the hill for the Loons. The Lugnuts will counter with left-hander Zach Logue. Following Friday's game, the teams head to Lansing to finish a four-game home-and-home series to start the season.

The Great Lakes Loons have been the Single-A partner of the Los Angeles Dodgers since the team's inception in 2007. Dow Diamond serves as the team's home and also houses the Michigan Baseball Foundation, a 501(c)(3) non-profit public charity, and ESPN 100.9-FM. For tickets or information about the Loons, call 989-837-BALL or visit Loons.com.

Brittany Saunders is ready to pay it forward. The Chicago native enrolled at SVSU with ambitions to pursue a teaching career. Brittany was encouraged and invigorated by other passionate educators who worked closely with her to ensure she would accomplish her goals. And she is. Even before she was set to graduate, Brittany could boast a résumé with a paid internship in a school district along with K-12 classroom experience. Now she can't wait to begin a professional career, inspiring students with the same kind of one-onone attention she received from her professors at SVSU.
